

Martin Saunders Senior Development Officer – Conservation of the Historic Environment

Post Graduate Diploma in Town and Country Planning, MSc (Master of Science) Conservation of the Historic Environment

Martin has over 30 years experience as a planner, with 20 years specialising in the conservation of the historic environment.

He has advised on a wide range of development including the successful re-use of listed buildings as hotel and conference venues, new housing in conservation areas, major town centre development with heritage impacts, and the assessment of proposed site allocations for the Local Plan. The issues of the conservation of timber framed buildings and the relationship of today's built environment to the historic landscape are particular favourites.

Martin has a commitment to conserving the historic environment as part of sustainable development and high quality place making, and to promoting the value of heritage assets of all types and periods to our everyday life.
